Grown-up reads: A swimming lesson has small steps. Swimmers listen to their teacher and practice one skill at a time. They may blow bubbles, kick their feet, or reach forward with their arms. Each swimmer can learn at a different pace.

Ask: What can swimmers do with their feet?

Draw / tell: Draw a swimmer's feet. Tell one fact from the text.

She may draw, label, or dictate. Grown-up writes her words.

Book talk: an author writes the words; an illustrator makes the pictures.

Science: weather observation

Say: 'Look outside from a safe place. What do you notice about the sky, wind, or rain? Draw a weather symbol. Tell me one piece of clothing that would help you feel comfortable today.'

I practiced today. I feel:
